As always, the site is undergoing some dramatic changes and should become more stable once the components have been tested and tweaked to be of use on this site. If you have suggestion or problems just tell the portal developer and they will eventually get the message. This can be deleted or it can just be turned into some other site content.

Conducted many test to reveal flaws or technical disfunctions in the deployment of site modules and components. These test were time consuming and tedious but were needed to move forward in the site design.

Initial installment technician provided extensive testing to verify functionality and adjusted components and modules to meet projected goal.
